Fast Forward

FAST FORWARD

The production of the memorable movie — the 1983-1984 school year at CHS — began during the summer, when the producers, directors, and crew workers busily set the stage for the arrival of the actors and actresses — in this case, the CHS students. At first the film rolled slowly, but it gradually gained momentum as the freshmen became acquainted with their new roles and the seniors realized that they were on the last frames of their high school years.

Before the filming could actually begin, the initial obstacles — confusion over schedules and locker numbers, filling out the dreaded Emergency cards, and paying class fees — had to be overcome. But the CHS students overcame them with their usual spirit and vigor, and by October the film was moving on FAST FORWARD.

Faster than a speeding Flyer, more powerful than a Roughrider, able to stir despondent crowds to their feet with a single cheer, it's Captain Cavalier!

In no time at all the actors and actresses were memorizing their lines, only to be constantly learning new ones. The Homecoming game, starring the victorious Cavalier football team, and the dance, featuring Queen Michelle Spoltman and her court, marked the end of the movie's first quarter. The critics found the undefeated Cav gridders good enough to win the MAC title, but not quite good enough to enter tournament action. Only the stars — the football players — and the supporting cast — the Cav fans — knew better! The cross country teams also enjoyed much success, sending Kris Steinke and Dave Mohlman to the state meet.

During the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays the cast and crew members were given a brief vacation, temporarily putting the film on pause. But it was back on FAST FORWARD again when semester exam time rolled around. By then the main roles were being played by the Cavalier basketball teams. The varsity boys team brought more awards to the school, in the forms of the MAC title and the district runners-up.

As spring came into view, thoughts turned to new scenes, such as track, baseball, prom, finals, and, of course, graduation. The weather didn't fit in well with this part of the film, as many cold and rainy days had to be accounted for. For one night in April, the Pit was transformed into a wonderland of moonlight and roses, to shoot the Prom sequences. This marked the movie's climax, and for this one day the weather did cooperate. After Prom the film entered its last frames as the attention was being focused on the upcoming graduation.

By now the stars were getting restless, suffering from severe cases of senioritis. But this didn't halt or even delay the production, as the mighty Cav baseball team once again captured the coveted state title. The film's final awards went to Laura Winner and Jill Deitsch, who competed in the state track meet.

Finally, the movie was ready for its long-awaited premiere. The date of this memorable event was May 20, 1984, when the seniors turned their lead roles over to the understudies. Twelve long, hard, but often exciting years had gone into the production of the movie. The final product was a group of people destined for stardom in future roles. Their goals varied greatly: some planned to enter the work force or serve their country in the military, many looked forward to attending college, and still others had hazy visions of marriage in their minds. Whatever the future held for these stars, they knew that the best way to accomplish their goals was to once again set their cameras on FAST FORWARD and begin preparing for the sequel to life's first movie.

The Pit players strut their stuff on the road.

Senior Memories

Although the Seniors of '84 are now going their own separate ways, they will always remember the help of their class officers and advisers, as well as the class colors: scarlet and gray; the class flower: red rose; and the class motto . . .

Class Officers: K. Feltz, J. Wenning, F. Forsthoefel, L. Honigford

Class Advisers: R. Wilker and L. Brunswick

Ideals are like stars; you will not succeed in touching them with your hands. But like the seafaring man on the desert of waters, you choose them as your guides and following them you will reach your destiny.

Senior Wills

I, Cheryl Abels, will my ability to do homework everyday in choir without getting caught to Pam Bergman, my gymnastics talent to Jill Geise since she has none, and finally, my ability to will to Paula Forsthoefel.

I, Shirley Abels, will my job at "Crusties" to anyone that will take it, and my ability to deal with John Selhorst for four years to Joelle Schmit and Amy Forsthoefel.

I, Tony Amato, will the hair I will lose June 4 to Ghandi.

I, Jan Bensman, will my keen sense of direction in CYO basketball to Bev Koesters, and to sis Connie I will my front row seat in English class.

I, Cindy Bertke, will the use of my black band tie to Amy Wiegel, so she no longer has to wear her "Bob Evan's" tie.

I, Dana Bertke, will my Accounting II heater to anyone dumb enough to take Advanced Accounting.

I, Kevin Bettinger, will my bar stool at K & K Tavern to any upcoming senior after I fall off.

I, Kris Bettinger, will my seat in Civics to my sister Kelley, and all my skills in Accounting II to any upcoming senior.

I, Shelly Bricher, will my ability not to attend school my entire senior year and still graduate to whomever can pull it off.

I, Terry Bruggeman, do hereby bequeath the dreaded LTD to my sister, Elaine, my "concentration" for solos in band to Dan Piper, and to Leslie Winner my ability to get accused of cheating every week in the Dillon Game.

I, Darlene Brunswick, will my computer math skills and my seat in Civics to my brother Dave.

I, Mark Brunswick, will our trip to the Reds game to Rick H., "Woody", and Mike K.

I, Bob Buschur, will my seat in choir to Dan Klosterman, Nate Wenning, or anyone who wants it.

I, Brent Buschur, will my fast Ford Granada to anybody who thinks they can sit straight up in it, my school books to the trash can, and my ability to skip school and go over to St. Henry High School, get chased by a teacher and not get caught to any upcoming senior.

I, Lynn Buschur, will my ability to run errands for Mrs. Wolf to anyone who wants it.

I, Jill Deitsch, will my hurdling ability to Kim Weitzel and Tonya Feltz (although they don't really need it), and my old traditional track cap to Jackie Buschur for future use.

I, Doug Depweg, almost being of sound mind, will my seat in the library to anybody who can take Mrs. Huber.

I, Don Dues, will nothing to nobody for I need everything I have.

I, Kevin Dues, will my keys to the trainers' room to Darrin Droesch in effort to use as much tape as I did.

I, Laura Ebbing, will my ability to answer only one question during all the Dillon Games played in the entire year of Civics class to Deb Hess.

I, Brian Eichler, will my possessions to the following: to Brad Kremer I leave my black hair so he won't be humiliated by that red hair any more, to Darrin Droesch I will my strength so he can beat Chuck Alig in arm wrestling like I have always done in the past, and to the Pollock twins I leave one Marlboro cigarette to fight over.

I, Kevin Feltz, will my superior level of intelligence to Mike, Russel, Rodney, and Roman Homan, my stunning good looks and charm to Mark Snow, my awesome guitar playing to Dan Kahlig, my body to Teresa Rose, and my ability to be almost every teachers' pet to Keith Feltz, Ryan, Brad, and Nathan Koesters and Matt Weigel and Fred.

I, Ken Fisher, will all my toothpicks to Rick "Jig" Muhlenkamp.

I, Shelly Fisher, will to Lisa S. my ability to have a waterfight while watering plants and not lose my pants over it.

I, Tony Fleck, will my ability to get along with Mr. Homan to Kyle Schritz.

I, Frank Forsthoefel, will to Mike "Woody" Wolters my spot on the Physics Laser Team, to Rick "Spidie" Hartings my ability to get to school just as the bell rings because he gets to school way too early, and to Mike Koester more make-up so he can cover up his "muffler burns" better.

I, Heidi Frenzer, will my seat in band to Amy Weigel hoping she will inherit my great ability to party and also all those suckers she wanted, to Connie Weis my sense of humor, to Dan Piper my ability to create the best cut downs, and to Jerri Doll my Pittsburgh Steeler shirt which I know she greatly admires.

I, Paul Gehm, will my enlarger bath to O.C. in hope that it will inspire him to become a better photographer.

I, Bob Gillis, will my number 33 football jersey to Brad "Big Red" Kremer, my car stereo to Darrin "Dickie" Droesch because his is junk, and all the rock-n-roll to Big Red, Dickie, Nad, Nod, and Bubba Jaws that they can handle until Chris and I get back.

I, Carol Griesdorn, being of sound mind and body, will my ability to act like I've been drinking before swing choir to Joelle Schmit, and to Jody Schroer I leave my band seat hoping she will be as dedicated as I was.

I, Gary Gruss, will my seat on the heater in Mr. Hoyng's room to any junior stupid enough to take Advanced Accounting, and all of the pencils I stole from Dave "Weed" Mohlman back to him.

I, Jeff Halterman, will my entire high school education to anyone who doesn't need a whole lot of education and all my athletic ability to anyone who doesn't need much of that either.

I, Pam Hartings, will the upcoming seniors luck so they will have a better senior skip day than we did, my accounting skills and the ability to get Mr. Hoyng off the subject to my sister Deb, and also to Deb I will the one and only jacked-up "Bug Mobile."

I, Deb Heitkamp, will my Accounting II books to any junior who is energetic enough to stay awake in Mr. Hoyng's class and my low, low test scores to those same undergrads who are so desperate for a credit that they are willing to put up with Mr. Hoyng for the whole year.

I, Rick Heyne, will my ability to not think of anything to write in this will.

I, Joe Hibner, will my first period early release to any junior, especially Bubba Brunswick, who needs some sleep after the weekends, and weekdays too.

I, Dave Hicks, being of sound mind, leave all my worthy possessions to Roger Depweg and the boys.

I, Jennifer Hicks, do hereby officially will my half of the national shrine to Elaine Bruggeman, my ability to flirt to Colleen McNamara to use in good health, and all the cut downs I should have given to him but never did to Dan Piper.

I, Sandy Hogan, will my bang-your-head days in IOE to Sheri Boeckman, my lack of shorthand skills to Lisa Bergman and my parking spot to Rick Sudhoff and his clan.

I, Ann Homan, will my seat of President of OEA to Jill Sudhoff as I wish her the best of luck at the annual OEA banquet.

I, Lori Homan, will my front row seat in English to whomever is dumb enough to sit there.

I, Larry Honigford, being of ingenious mind and incredibly sound body, will my outstanding modesty and lack of conceitedness to anyone great enough, and the aliases Washington Irving and John Milton to Gabby Wilker. (Kilroy was here.)

I, Mike Kaiser, will my wrestling dedication to Chuck Alig and Dickie Droesch, my dieting ability and five mile run to Scott Froning, my uncanny ability to get suspended by J.N. to Nate Wenning, and my ability to frustrate Mr. Weber in Physics to "Wally" Balster.

I, Ron Kanney, will all our "Hamm's Parties" to anyone whose parents buy Hamms, and my ability to build Noah's Ark and do no work on it to Rick "Rich" Hartings.

I, Tor Klette, will my kicking shoes to any fool that thinks he can handle it, and my wrestling skills to Chuck Alig and Darrin "Dickie" Droesch.

I, Don Klosterman, will my front row seat to Etan Gninnew (beware of flying meter sticks), and my Latin skills to any fool who will take it.

I, Mark Klosterman, being of sound mind and sounder body, will my ability to screw around and skip three-fourths of a track practice to the rest of the track team since there's enough to go around, and my speed and shin-splints to Freddy Sowar — more power to you.

I, Alicia Knapke, will my class three bar routine to Jill Geise or Teresa Rose or anyone else who thinks they can handle it.

I, Denis "Knap" Knapschaefer, being of fried mind and body, will my pickles and my locker door beauties to whomever the lucky dog is that gets locker 375.

I, Beck Koester, will my practice suits, goggles, and swimming ability to Annette and Lynda, my streaked hair and Eddie Money tapes to Ame Stammen to keep up the "Eddie tradition", and to Kath, Annette, Kim, and Jill I will my dancing ability, Tiger shoes, and continued fun at Whitewater.

I, Dave Koesters, will my padded Civics book to anyone who couldn't stay awake in American History.

I, Duane Koesters, being of sound mind and body, will my seat on the accounting room heater to any junior taking Accounting II, my crusty Civics book to Kevin Reed, and both my lockers to someone who needs them.

I, Joe Koesters, do hereby will the Arrow with its arrow-dynamics to my sister Bev to keep up the partying spirit, my football helmet to Schrity to wear over his whole body to protect him from further harm, and a balloon to Bruce Mendenhall.

I, Donna Laux, will my "great abilities" in CYO basketball to Ann "Brute" Kremer so she can be the one with all the bruises.

I, Kevin Lennartz, will my ability to listen to Mr. Hoyng in Accounting II without falling asleep to anyone who takes the class.

I, Pam Livingston, will my singing ability to Chris Kohn, my locker to my brother Ken, and my skipping school ability to my cousin Karen.

I, Lisha LoBianco, will my great athletic ability to my sister Chris and my brother Nick, and my ability to consume great amounts of alcohol to Deb Giere.

I, Betsy Lochtefeld, once being of sound mind and body until I became a high school band member, will my ability to withstand the frustrations of breaking-in a freshman to Brenda Uhlenhake, my yelling ability to Linda Mohlman, and my enthusiasm for band to Teri Schwieterman.

I, Rick May, will my ability to stay awake in Civics most of the time to anyone who needs help staying awake.

I, Ralph Meyer, will uuuuh, I don't know.

I, Gary Miller, will my great ability in forging signatures to Gary Gruss or to any senior stupid enough to take English with Mr. Homan.

I, Jim Minch, will my ability to screw-up an FFA meeting and not have anyone realize it to Steve Muhlenkamp, and my Civics notebook to Bill Homan.

I, Lorraine Moeller, will my partying nights at S&S to my brother Greg who will hopefully make it home a little better than I did.

I, Dave Mohlman, will to Dave "Wienie" Prenger the ownership of the Eddie Murphy cross country tape, to Greg "Animal" Eyink I will my legs and stride, to my sister my seven lockers and my bottle of ASM anacin, and the finesse and tact to get a three day suspension with only fifteen days left of my senior year to any junior worthy of such a bestowment.

I, Lewis Muhlenkamp, will my locker to anyone who likes to have their books moved around.

I, Helene Nordfors, will all my happy American memories to all you great people at CHS, to Mr. Staas my last name which I hope he will be able to pronounce in the future, and Julie, keep on practicing Swedish, Hej dal

I, Roger Pax, will all my study materials to Karen Brockman because she will need all the help she can get.

I, Lisa Post, will my ability to get nailed at band practice to Ginger Wuebker.

I, Beth Roth, will full use and abuse of the Jaws squad and my Pac-Man squirt gun to Theresa Post; to Maria Fortkamp I will Prissy; I will Flo to Ferdinand and Fred to Freida; and "Gingerbread" Wuebker's freshman t-shirt back to her in four years.

I, Angi Rutschilling, will the partying "Duke Mobile" to Teresa Rose who needs a place to party since the Bruns boys won't let her party at their house.

I, Doug Salm, will my ability to break fingers to whomever wants to drive the trainers wild, and have a nice little chat with the refs before each football game.

I, Sandy Schmackers, will my ability to take notes in Civics while fast asleep to Lisa Post, my position as head gooley girl to Glenda "Homan" Siefring, and to Amy Garman, my English writing essays if she can read correct-o-type.

I, Carolyn Schmit, being of fairly sound mind, bequeath to Leslie Winner my unique green and white spit rag, to David Smith "my regards", and to Greg Pax my essay on moral courage.

I, Rob Schmidt, will my wrestling ability to Steve "Animal" Baumer, and my ability to get suspended to Nate Wenning.

I, Dale Schmitmeyer, will my car to anybody who can flip it on its side and prop it up with a railroad tie.

I, Joe Schneider, will my 1:30 early release, my first period Civics class, and whatever education I got to my brother Dan.

I, Kelly Schroer, will my "footloose" ability in basketball to Kathi Severt.

I, Sandy Schwieterman, will my cancerous beast to my kid sister Lynda, and my "Patience . . ." t-shirt to the one and only Mr. Homan.

I, Michelle Spoltman, will my superior sign-painting ability to Lynda Schwieterman.

I, Dennis Stammen, will my girl's swing choir dress to any upcoming senior guy who is "smart" enough to get best-dressed superlative their senior eyar.

I, Gary Stammen, will my ability to see through teachers as if they weren't there to Darrin Droesch and may he use this power wisely and just as often as I did.

I, Janet Stammen, will to all the gooley sisters from Coldwater, Theresa & Glenda Siefring, and Brenda Uhlenhake, my ability to have a good time working in the egg hole.

I, Brenda Staugler, will my Monday hangovers and my crazy partying times at New Weston to Tracy Herron.

I, David Steinbrunner, will my physics book to anybody who vows to cheat on their physics lab, and my ability to win the Dillon Games to Kevin Reed.

I, Krista Steinke, will my insubordinate attitude to the few remaining percussionists, my ability to handle abuse to Bush, that she may also will it to Ginger when she graduates, my numerous unmentionable nicknames to Heather and Kim, and to everyone I missed, my ability to get kicked out of band with only five days left of the class.

I, Darin Stelzer, will my right side to anybody with a handicap on the left side.

I, James Stelzer, will my life to Kim Weitzel, my scarlet/grey spikes to Rick Buschur, the dreaded "Sky Pole" to my pole vaulting helper Randy Kremer, and also to anyone who would like to ruin their Senior Year, I will them the opportunity to have a kidney operation.

I, Carla Sudhoff, will my ability to take shorthand at an extreme amount of words a minute to Jill Sudhoff.

I, Terry Tebbe, will all of my study halls to whomever wants to sleep a lot.

I, Julie Thomas, will all my shorthand skills to Jodie Thomas.

I, Becky Timmerman, will my I.O.E. and shorthand abilities to my two younger sisters, and my sociology front seat to anyone who wants to try to sleep, also my Hemmelgarn's job to anyone who loves to be called a "gooley girl" and the ability to clean machines and the afterwork partying to anyone who's crazy.

I, Kathie Umstead, will my ability to leave yearbook meetings early and still get my pages in on time to any Junior who takes my place, also my ability to teach a morning religion class and still make it to Mr. Homan's classroom before the second bell rings to any Junior needing it.

I, Femke Wijngaarden, will my accent and my dictionary to the following Dutch exchange student.

I, Deb Walterbusch, will my ability to read Mr. Homan's handwriting every Thursday on Teachers' Day, and also my front row seat in Sociology to anyone who is dumb enough to take that class.

I, Linda Weitzel, will my ability of trying to stay awake in Civics to whomever falls asleep in class now.

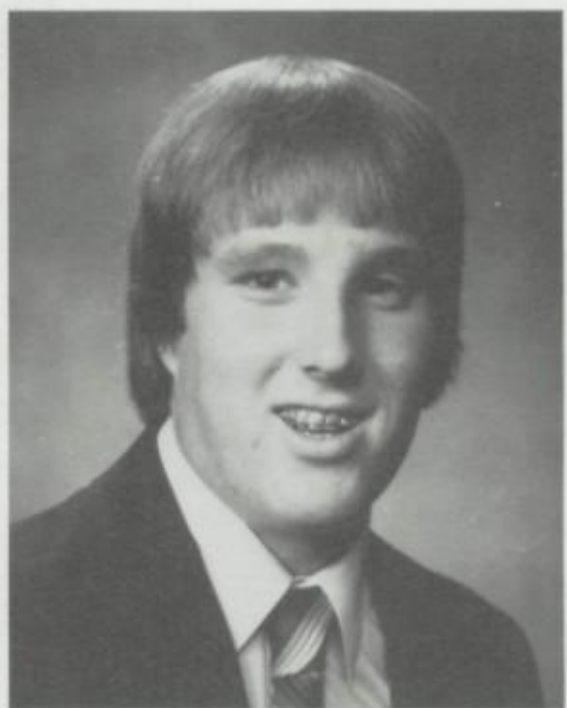

I, Mike Welsch, will my Stroh's partying hat to Teresa Rose.

I, Rose Wenning, will all my ability to get in trouble to my sister, Mart, and to "Mama" (Marcia Baumeier) I will all of my high-heeled shoes.

I, Dan Wilker, will my ability to take notes the first week of school and pass the rest of the year to anybody dedicated enough to sit in class without picking up their pen.

I, Laura Winner, will my discus form to my sister Leslie, my shot form to Elaine Brugge-man, and my height to anyone who likes to stand out in a crowd.

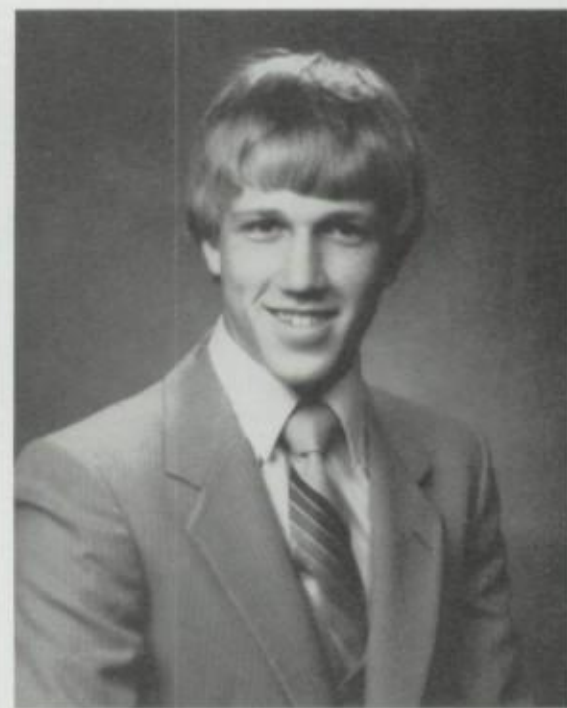

I, Rena Wint, will my ability to mess up as a witness in a Mock Trial Case during Civics class to whomever plays this vital role in the years to come.

Directors

Sometimes I wonder . . .

Did Mr. Cully take lessons from Boris Karloff, so he could show us his Dr. Frankenstein charm when mixing chemicals?

If Wile E. Coyote had attended Mr. Weber's physics class, would he have been able to devise a formula to catch the Road Runner?

If Rhett Butler had gone to Mrs. Barger's single living class would he have still married Scarlett O'Hara?

Like producers and directors the teachers and faculty guide us to stardom and prepare us for future roles. They give us the incentive to discover our talents, so we can someday become like the famous actors and actresses, Charlie Chaplin, Boris Karloff, Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire, Clark Gable, Marilyn Monroe, Tom Cruise and Bugs Bunny.

They help us over the rough spots, praising us when a scene is good enough to produce. They prepare us for future scenes such as college or work, that will put our names in lights.

Though we may not realize it now, someday we will thank our teachers. "When?" you say? The day we receive the long sought-after Emmy or Grammy.

Cavalier Victory Adds Excitement To Crowning

It was more than just another Friday night; it was Homecoming Friday night! Along with the cold crispness, there was a feeling of anticipation and excitement in the air. The returning alumni searched the stands for their old high school pals as the present student body — especially the seniors — awaited the announcement of their selection for Homecoming Queen.

After the Cavalier Marching Band set its traditional heart formation, the candidates and their escorts made their way through it. The crowd silenced as Sandy Schwieterman was named Maid of Honor and after a dramatic pause, Michelle Spoltman was announced 1983 Homecoming Queen. Michelle was crowned among jubilant cheers and applause of congratulations.

The applause of the pre-game ceremonies carried through the exciting game as the Cavs, defeating Minster, notched another victory. The crowning of a queen and the celebration of a victory put a perfect topper on the Seniors' last homecoming game.

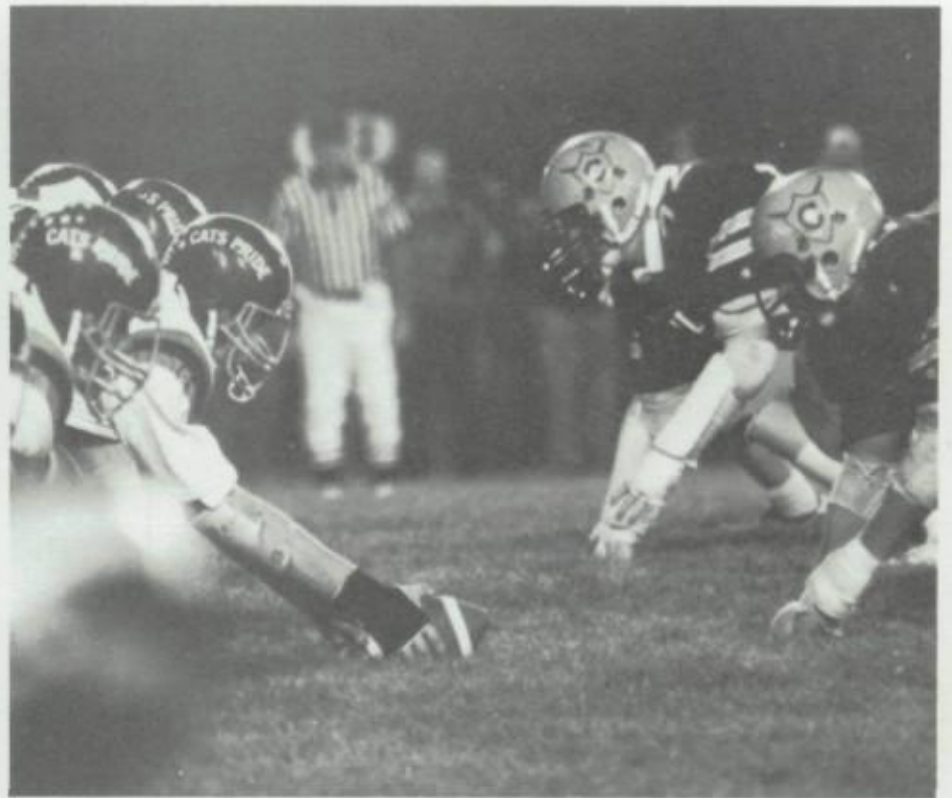

Court: Pam Hartings, Sandy Schwieterman, Michelle Spoltman, Becky Koester, and Carla Sudhoff.

Homecoming Rocks C.H.S.

Though the year had just begun, October 8 rolled around much quicker than anyone had anticipated. The C.H.S. Homecoming Dance became history for 1983. Our local DJ, Disco Z, provided tunes that set our bodies in motion. The evening drew to an end much too quickly. Another super night to remember for everyone.

Dear Diary . . .

Tonight was so great! I shoved my homework under the bed (who cares if I have two tests and a lab due tomorrow!) and trucked on up to watch the girls' basketball game. When I got there, I saw a couple of guys dressed in suits and ties in an unusually crowded gym. Duh! It was guys' homecoming! The first half of the girls' game just DRAGGED! But I guess the wait was worth it. It took forever for the announcer to read those stupid lists of high school activities, but I didn't care — I could've stared at those guys FOREVER. They were so-o-o-o-o cute! Finally, and I mean FINALLY, the runner-up was announced — Mike Welsch. And then everybody got really quiet as Mark Brunswick was announced the king. What a night!

Sincerely,

X X X

P.S. We won!

C'mon, guys! It isn't that bad!

Femke van Wijngaarden

August 8th, 1983, my dream finally came true, I was in America. The first days were amazing, the big cars, the different types of houses and people watching television almost all day long, and the very hot weather. I got used to all of this very quickly. Even better, I started to love it. I enjoyed the school with all its activities and also the football and basketball games with their big, loud, screaming crowds. I always thought I was going to be deaf by the end. And even though I couldn't go out for any sports in school because I got my high school diploma in the Netherlands, I enjoyed being a manager for volleyball and a stat for girls basketball. I really liked being a part of Swing Choir. But still one of the best things of my year was meeting all the new people. Thank you all for being so nice to me. And I want to thank my family and all my friends here, because YOU made this year so special for me. I'm never going to forget you. liefs en tot ziens, Femke

Francisco Martin

I am Francisco Martin from Colombia. I am 18 years old. I was born in Cortagena and I am very happy to have been an exchange student here at Coldwater High School. This school means a lot to me, because CHS helped me in my decision for the future. CHS is different from the school in Colombia, because you have a great opportunity to take any subjects that you like. In Colombia all subjects are obligation. Here I knew and met wonderful people and had a good time with them. Never will I forget this experience or my friends in Coldwater High School. I would say good-bye but there is not a good-bye forever because the next time I return here to say "Hello" to my friends and Coldwater.

Francisco

Helene Nordfors

When I for the first time heard I was going to a town called Coldwater, with only 4000 inhabitants, when I couldn't find it on a map, I got a little bit worried — what kind of place is this!! But I went, and that is the best thing I have ever done. This year has been the greatest year of my whole life. I know when I go home my life will be so much richer because I have met YOU, COLDWATER.

I have spent a lot of my time in school. The nice yearbook you are now holding is something I have helped to put together.

When it comes to sports — I wanted to try something that I never had done before — gymnastics. I quickly realized I was not a new Olympic star, but I learned a lot, and I had a great deal of fun. What I also really enjoyed was being a member of Swing Choir. I even played the bass guitar for a couple of months 'til I realized that the band would sound better without me! I wish we had choirs like this in Swedish schools, but unfortunately we don't.

Before and after the gymnastics season I joined aerobic dance, which was a lot of fun too.

As you might see I have been a busy girl. There are just a couple of months left now of my year here. My wish is that one day in the future I could come back and visit everybody and everything I loved so much: my family, my friends, my high school, Coldwater, Ohio and America.

Thanks for a great year! See you!

Tor Klette

When I first came here, I was kind of confused because of the big difference in the language and culture between Norway and the U.S.

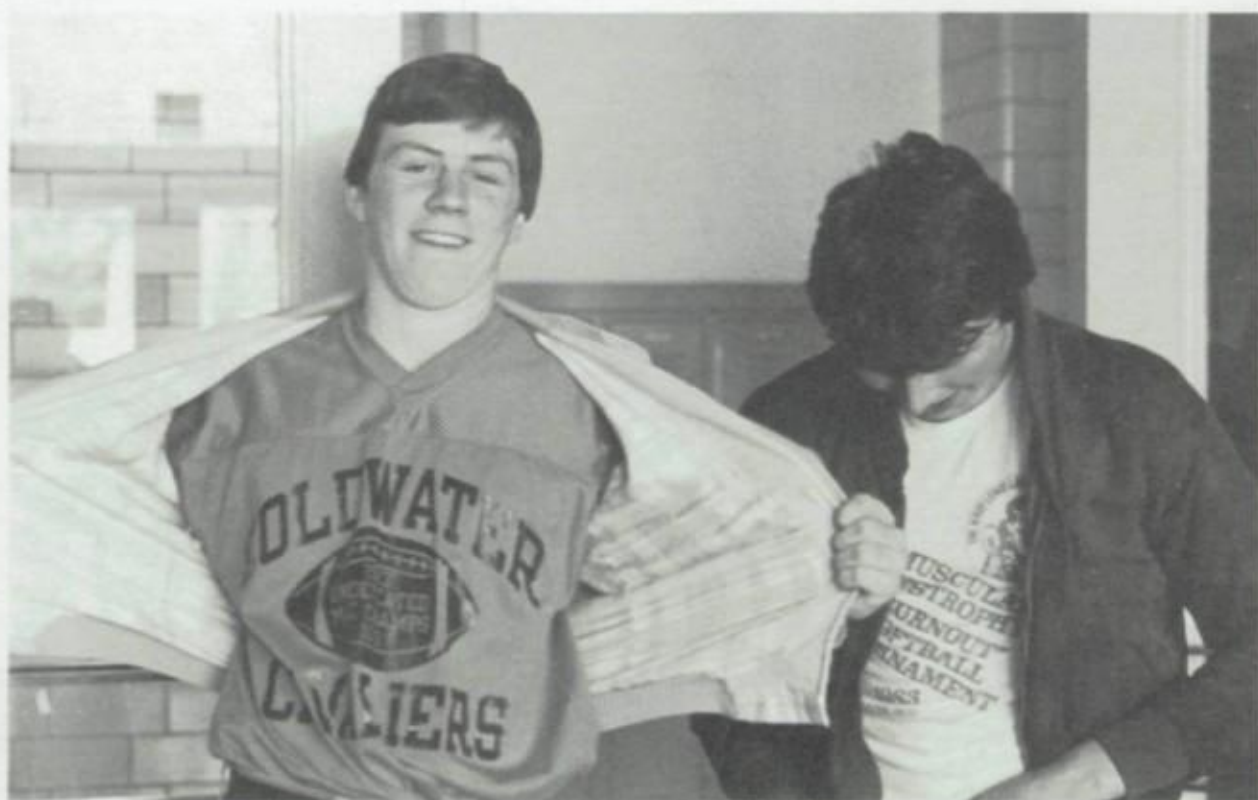

The school seemed kind of strange to me because of all its different activities and so on. The classes are much easier here, and I really like to choose my own classes, something I can't possibly do at home.

After the first few days I came here, I joined football, and I'm really glad I did because it helped me a lot to make friends in the beginning of "my year." Some of the friends gave me the nick-name "Klette-Head," something that sounded like a strange foreign name to me in the beginning, but as soon as I got used to it, it was just like I was born with it.

Being a representative from another nation, I accept the American people, their culture and ways of life. Something I like about them is when they get to know you well, they treat you just like you were one of them. Going out for football, wrestling, and track, I got to know a whole lot of people. I think it's very important for an exchange student to be involved in as many activities as he possibly can. This year has been a big experience for me, and I want to thank everybody who helped me feel at home.

I am happy I can count on the very good friends I have here in America.

A Time to . . .

No matter what grade you're in or what classes you take, there is a certain phenomenon that occurs every day: free time. Of course, free time is more common in some classes than others, but you just can't get away from it. The big question, then, is "What do students do during this free time?" Here's a partial list: sleep, play cards, do homework, test the aerodynamics of paper planes or spit wads, daydream, talk, listen to a Walkman, eat, draw or doodle, gossip, write notes, read, sunbathe, comb their hair, roam the halls, use the facilities, and watch other people do all of the above.

A Different Education

Teachers and administrators realize that outside experiences can be just as educational as classroom instruction. This, then, shows the importance of in-school assemblies. This year, C.H.S. students watched and learned from a variety of presenters: The Dayton Ballet, a computer expert, a caricature artist, an author, and a war veteran.

The Prom of 1984 rolled around very quickly — much too quickly for some. There were those who still had to rush to order a corsage or boutonniere, buy a dress or suit, search for a last-minute date, or catch the ultimate tan in three days. That special day came soon, though. A day met with much excitement: for the Seniors, their last Prom; for the Juniors, their first.

That Special Day

May 20th, Graduation Day, was one met with great excitement and much tradition: Pomp and Circumstance, Student speakers, presentation of diplomas, and unfortunately rain.

Although bodies and gowns may have been dampened, spirits certainly weren't. Students walked proudly on that special day.

Carolyn Schmit delivered the valedictory address and Jane Wenning gave the salutatory speech. Helene Nordfors, representative for the exchange students, gave a special speech and presented Mr. Pax an oil painting of her homeland. Kevin Dues, President of the student council, also presented the Student Council Scholarship.

As the graduates filed out after commencement exercises, they gathered in the basement to talk with their friends, get a few pictures, and take a final look at "their special class."

Rewind . . . The Year in Review

As C.H.S. students started the 83-84 academic year, the weather made it difficult to concentrate on school. Record high temperatures in Coldwater, and around the country, turned classrooms into ovens. Practice fields weren't exempt from the heat either as football and volleyball players, Cross Country runners, golfers, and band members "sweat" themselves into shape.

Aside from the weather, other happenings were making the news: Australia won the America's Cup in yachting, the Soviets destroyed a Korean airliner, and the drive-in movie celebrated its 50th anniversary.

As the weather started cooling down, the sports scene at C.H.S. began to heat up. Golfers were doing well, cross country runners advanced, and the football team closed their season not only with an M.A.C. title on the line, but with a play-off berth looming in the background. They gained it the M.A.C. title, but the play-offs were narrowly out of reach. A disappointed student body carried on, though, as they watched another Halloween pass and another sports season begin. Basketballs soon became a common sight in The Pit.

Once again, news stories crept into hallway conversations. The world marked the 20th anniversary of John F. Kennedy's assassination, terrorists bombed U.S. headquarters in Beirut, the U.S. invaded the small island nation of Grenada, and Sally Ride became the first woman astronaut.

Students soon began to look forward to their first "real" vacation — Thanksgiving. Macy's Parade, turkey, cranberry sauce, and football games came and went. And by that, the Christmas shopping season was officially open. The Boys and Girls Basketball teams as well as the wrestlers hunted for an M.A.C. title, while other students looked forward to better gifts; perhaps a Cabbage Patch Doll, or a Walkman. Santa Claus finally made his annual trip and Mr. T spent Christmas at the White House.

School started once again as AT&T made its big split. Students now had the pleasure of taking semester finals and hoped that Orwell's Big Brother would be kind in 1984.

Finals over, and a new semester began: some new classes and the same old ones. As usual the students' minds were on everything except books. Basketball fans watched as the Boys team captured an M.A.C. title and made it to the final round of the district tournament, while the Girls team matched their best season record ever. Wrestling fans watched as wrestlers moved on to state.

Sports also dominated the world scene as nations prepared for the 1984 Winter Olympics in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia. After many weather delays, the U.S. found medal winners in Phil and Steve Mahre, Debbie Armstrong, Bill Johnson, Scott Hamilton, and Rosalyn Sumners, among others.

Spring began to show its colors and students longed for a break after an endless stretch of vacationless days. The weather got still warmer, but rock videos and Michael Jackson were already hot. The Soviet Union announced that Yuri Andropov was dead while Clara Peller asked Americans, "Where's the beef?"

Track and Baseball seasons began giving students something else to occupy their free time. Seniors began thinking of graduation, and Juniors worried about the ACT. By April, the Democratic race for the Presidency was in full gear, but upperclassmen worried about who would get the Prom King and Queen.

As the year came quickly to a close, thoughts were of finals once again. Hallway conversations were composed of ideas on senior trips, college plans, break-dancing, Boy George, The La Comedia controversy, a summer romance, and next year's class schedule.

Seniors welcomed May 20th and the underclassmen finished up their last two weeks of school. The first days of vacation brought a second State AA Baseball Title and track participation in the State Meet. Even though school was out, fans turned out in record numbers to greet the champions.

This "Fast Forward" Year moved quickly, but with so many outstanding accomplishments, it will not be quickly forgotten.

"Music-on-the-brain" is probably the most common disease there is at CHS. Those inflected usually show symptoms of uncontrollable fits of boogeying down, jamming electric air guitars, and singing anywhere at anytime. While "jam" boxes, stereos, and walkmans are the primary cause of this quite contagious disorder, no cure has yet been found. However, relief can be attained by attending as many concerts as possible. Wearing concert T-shirts, collecting albums, and hanging pics of favorite groups in one's locker also allow for considerable relief.

"MAYBE I DO"

In a unique double-wedding ceremony, Jenny Robbins and Gary Balster and Pam Bergman and Matt Wolters were united in holy matrimony. Oh dear, I'm off to a bad start already; you see, it wasn't actually holy, and they weren't all united in matrimony. Well anyway, the ceremony was officiated by the not-so-reverend Fr. Dean "Guido" Mueller. Escorted down the aisle by Julia Crouch, Bride Jenny wore a pearl-accented tiara with a traditional shoulder-length veil. I think it was a K-Mart blue light special, actually. Bride Pam wore an identical crown. As a matter of fact it was the same one — don't ask me how they managed that. Both brides wore matching fashionable Levi pinstripe jeans. Additionally the brides carried the same delicate cascade of plastic mums, daisies, and English ivy highlighted with flowing ribbons. The brides strictly adhered to the NCAA alternate possession rules by exchanging the bouquet at mid-aisle. The beautiful and touching ceremony was concluded with two firm handshakes. Following the ceremony, a reception was held in Room 207 amidst gum-encrusted desks and hygiene posters which provided a very romantic setting. Although square dancing and alcoholic beverages were not permitted due to school regulations, a weeble (you know, they wobble) — adorned cake provided welcome refreshment.

Cavs Set The Pace

The 1983 Girls Cross Country team brought new meaning to the word "success." This young team, with only three returning members, became the most successful team in Cavalier history. Oddly enough this strange combination of abundant youth and little experience proved to work out well as the girls placed first in the Lions Invitational and second in the MAC meet. The season's highlight, though, was the third place finish at Sectionals. This allowed the team to advance to the District meet in Tiffin, Ohio. "We went nuts when we knew we had made it to Districts," recalled one team member. "It was such a great experience staying overnight and then running against such good teams." Even though the girls didn't make it to the State meet, the experience of such a successful season should be a tremendous advantage for them in the years to come.

"Consistency" was the word used most often when describing the 1983 Boys Cross Country team. This young team, which had only one returning varsity member, worked hard to keep its consistency strong. The final reward was capturing the runner-up trophy at the Greenville Invitational. "This makes all the practices worthwhile!" stated one member enthusiastically.

Dedication, hard work, and perseverance are three important qualities any team needs. The 1983 Cavalier Cross Country teams had just that. In addition to surviving weather conditions ranging from hot and humid to cold and sleet, they also needed to overcome the obstacle of hilly, rutted, and even "boring" courses. But the feeling of accomplishment at the end of each practice and meet made it all worthwhile. The season was not all sweat and agonizing pain. Good times always seemed to follow the Cavalier runners wherever they went. Listening to Def Leppard's "Pyromania" over and over became a tradition at Saturday morning invitationals. Teasing Coach Schwieterman (and being teased by Coach Schwieterman) helped to make many miles seem shorter and to "immunize" the runners against a lot of pain.

Gridders make all the right moves

The 1983 Cavalier football team used "all the right moves" to once again capture the MAC championship. However, this was not enough as they also dominated selections to the 1983 All-MAC Football team. Named to the first team were Mark Klosterman, Gary Stammen, Carl Brunswick, Don Klosterman, and Duane Depweg. This number 1 team didn't get to be number 1 without a lot of hard practice and dedication. It took long hours of practicing and learning new plays, both during the season and in the off-season. They sweated the details. But it paid off as they shut out five of their ten opponents and kept their defensive average to 6.0 points per game. Special recognition should go to Mark Klosterman and Gary Stammen, the two offensive captains, and Bob Gillis and Mike Welsch, the two defensive captains, for their leadership and dedication to the team.

Frosh Go All Out

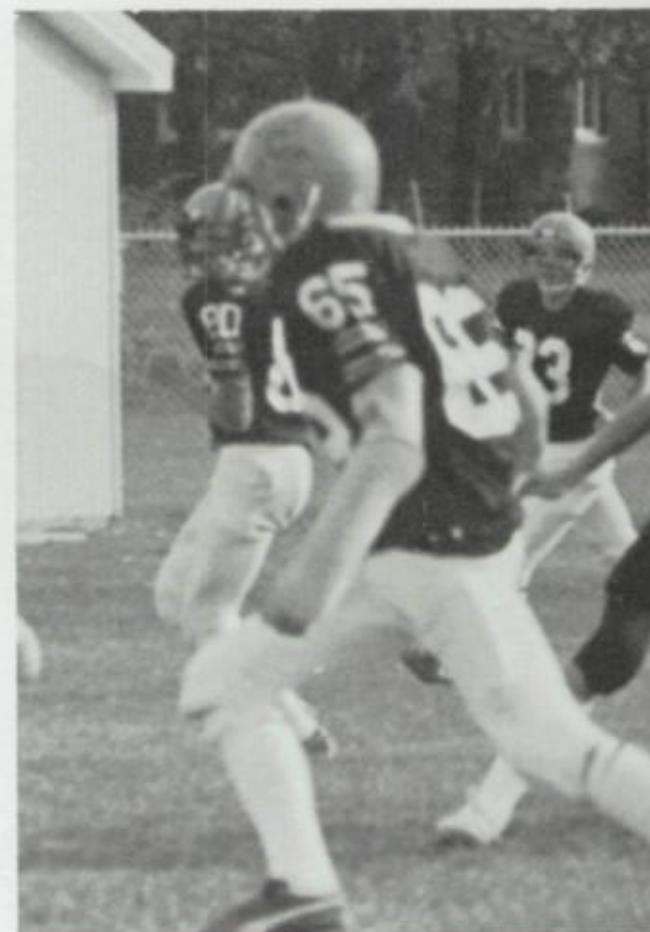

The freshmen football season began with conditioning in early August. Nautilus machines, weights, and miles of running helped perfect strength and endurance. And all the hard work in the beginning gave the players the capabilities they needed to capture a winning season. The first three wins were sources of self-satisfaction to each individual. But midway through the season the team lost a little of their spunk and had to settle with two losses and a tie. The pressure of this mid-season slump along with the team's unending spirit, led to two final wins to end the year with a 5-2-1 record.

Reserves Do Fine Job

Playing for the reserve football team may not be too glamorous, but it is rewarding — especially when the team ends with a 6-1 record. Unlike some teams, everyone learns to play both offensively and defensively. This policy gives each player a “feel” for the sport as a whole. Another team policy is to make any actively playing junior a captain. This year's juniors included Arnie Olsen, Bill Homan, Dan Schneider, and Kevin Siefring.

There were no really outstanding players because, as Coach Cully put it, “one and all did a fine job. Attention should be called, though, to the two freshman who came up to reserve level and did a very respectable job — Trent Dues and Steve Eichler.”

Several outstanding accomplishments of the year included their 1st place titles at both the Mercer County match and the Hardee's Open. When the team scored under a 175, they were rewarded trips to McDonalds. But the team could not use the drive-thru since they had to use a bus. For all nine players!

Success Isn't Everything . . .

Success is not always measured by the number of wins and losses. The dedication, enthusiasm, and constant improvement tell a great deal more about this year's players than their team record. The varsity team consisted of two returning seniors, seven juniors, and one sophomore. Despite their record, their new coach, Deb Eichar, kept the girls' attitude up and taught them that working together and enjoying themselves is just as important as winning.

During mid-season, they played many close, three-game matches and successfully won two out of their sixteen games. With their potential and the willingness of the coach, the volleyball team has a tremendous chance of bettering their record next year.

In the beginning . . .

In the beginning, when God created the heavens and the earth, the earth was a formless wasteland. Then God said, "Let there be a basketball," and there was a basketball. And God saw how good it was. Evening came and morning followed. The first day. Then God said, "Let there be a basketball court on which the ball can be used." And so, a court. The second day. Then God said, "Let there be players — and let one go before the rest to guide them and to be called 'coach.'" The third day. Then God said, "Let there be the Cavaliers, and let them compete against the other teams, and let this competition be called a 'game.'" Evening came and morning followed. The fourth day. God saw how well the Cavs could play. But the games lacked spirit, so God created fans and cheerleaders. The fifth day. And the fans and cheerleaders encouraged the Cavaliers to a MAC victory — past the Flyers, the Redskins, the Blue Jays . . . And God saw how good the Cavs were and said, "Let them advance into the tournament." And so, a Sectional victory. The sixth day. Then, on the seventh day, while God rested, the Cavaliers battled the Lima Central Catholic T-Birds. But the T-Birds prevailed. Maybe, if God hadn't rested . . .

Being the warm-up to the varsity team isn't all that glamorous. But these guys proved to be a four-star coming attraction as three reserve players — Arnie Olsen, Dean Driesch, and Nick Fisher — had the opportunity to also play on the varsity level. Rebounding and defensive excellence pulled the team to a not-to-shabby record of 14-6.

Freshmen Gain Experience

"All beginnings are difficult," or so goes an old proverb. But the 1983-84 freshmen basketball team made their high school debut look like a piece of cake. The natural talent of this force allowed them to gain a terrific season and a wealth of experience that will last a life time.

"We Are Family"

Whoever wrote the quote "The family that plays together, stays together" must have had the girls' varsity basketball team in mind. This group of girls resembled a family more than a team. And these feelings of family togetherness made the season that much more memorable. As senior Kelly Schroer put it, "We're so much like a family. It's unreal! We do almost everything together."

The "family's" season began in late October with two weeks of grueling conditioning. Moans of "I can't move anymore!", "How many more minutes 'til practice is over?", and "The alley drill, AGAIN?!" filled many practices. But each girl gave the others the support they needed. And as the season wore on, each player showed much improvement.

By the time tournament rolled around, each girl was confident that the team would go far — maybe even to Columbus for the state finals. But a disappointing upset by Kenton shattered those dreams. The girls had to admit, though, that their 18-2 season was something to be quite proud of.

Like their "older sisters", the girls' reserve basketball team also claimed a super year. Their 12-7 record, however, doesn't quite describe how well the twelve-member squad actually played. Many of their losses were decided by only one or two points. These close games, though, along with the winning season will give the girls the foundation they need for an even brighter future.

"Early to Bed, Early to Rise"

The old saying, "Early to bed, early to rise, makes a man healthy, wealthy, and wise," obviously didn't have the gymnastics team in mind. Even though this well known quote was drilled into the gymnasts' heads it still didn't ease the pains of six o'clock morning practices. Nearly half of the team was composed of freshman causing the team to be less stable than others. Many hours of free time had to be set aside for practices. But their destination was always clear — Districts. The gymnasts were able to compete in both class three and four districts and class two districts, something the previous gymnasts had not been able to do. Four lucky gymnasts received awards: Jill Geise was awarded the MVP while Teresa Rose was chosen as most improved. The coaches' award was presented to Alicia Knapke. A new award, which took on the appearance of a quilt was awarded. Cheryl Abels received the quilt which was constructed from squares each gymnast had created.

Wrestlers Roll Forward

Wrestling is probably the most gruelling sport there is. It is blood, sweat, and tears all the way. But when it's all said and done with, the tedious workouts and the competitive meets all pay off. Many skills are sharpened — quick-thinking, quick-reacting, stamina, and teamwork.

This year's wrestling team found the year to be quite special. Highlighting their 12-6 performance was their new school record for most pins in a season — 106 in all. Other outstanding moments came when the Cavalier grapplers placed third out of eight in the St. Marys invitational and fifth out of ten at the district meet. At districts Mike Kaiser and Rob Schmidt placed first in their respective weight classes. Also placing at districts were Chuck Alig, Darrin Droesch, and Dana Bertke. With the exception of Dana Bertke, all qualified for regionals. By placing third in the regional competition, Rob Schmidt became the first member of the CHS wrestling team to qualify for state competition which was held in Columbus, Ohio.

District Champions

It takes a lot of energy to keep up with the girls track team. Like the boys' team, these girls had talent. So much, in fact, that they ran up a 50-9 record. The big wins came in the big meets. The girls gathered honors including third of 14 in the Bath Invitational, runners-up in the Elida Invitational, runners-up in the MAC, Mercer County champs and District Champs. As those wins were tallied, so were the memories. Loyal fans — Mrs. Taco and Mr. Burrito (Mark Klosterman's parents), Mrs. Creep (Bill McKenzie's Mom), and Mrs. Mr. and Mrs. Kirk — kept everybody in high spirits. With only five seniors passing on the girls will be in the hunt again next year.

MAC Champions

The days of easy earned success have passed in track and field. The athlete must push himself farther and farther to be successful. The 1984 Boys team did just that. Though they didn't have the large number of members this group put everything together and were very successful. It takes a certain talent to be able to run eight times around a track . . . or heave a discus 140 feet . . . or jump over a bar almost a foot taller than yourself. The Boys team had this talent and it carried them to thirty victories, a county runner-up trophy, a MAC championship, and ten MAC plaques. Although no one advanced to State, upcoming cindermen will give "the enemy" something to think about next year.

Cavs Earn State Title

Another successful victory

In honor of Lou Brunswick's silver anniversary as head coach, the Cavalier baseball team wrote a most challenging script, yet played it out with confidence. By the end of the year each player could look back at a season filled with many highlights.

It began with seven returning seniors. These players led the team through a season packed with rained-out games. Because of the rain the Cavs had to share a MAC title with Parkway. Named to the MAC All-Star team were Larry Honigford, Don Klosterman, Mark Brunswick, Ken Fisher, & Mike Wolters. Frank Forsthoefel and Mike Welsch received honorable mention. Because of state tournament these players were ruled ineligible to play Mark Brunswick was also voted MVP and All-State selection.

Seven also proved to be lucky for starting pitcher Mike Wolters. Going 7-0 in the season he earned his final victory, along with Don Klosterman and Mark Brunswick, in the state championship game against Hamilton Badin. With that win the Cavaliers capped the season with a batting average better than .300 and a 34 game winning streak.

Reserve Keeps With Pace

This year's JV team kept up with the fast pace of a shortened season. Poor weather hampered many games but it did not stop the team from making the most out of the season. The team's good hitting helped contribute much to their successful year. Their determination to win will help each player during the years to come. The JV team ended the season with a record of 11-6.

Freshmen Work For Future

The freshman diamondmen gained much experience from this year's season. Some members of the team were placed on the JV squad. This allowed other freshman members to play more games and contribute to a winning cause. This experience will be a valuable key for the future. The Freshmen team ended the season with a record of 7-5.

Football Cheerleaders

Perking Up Cav Spirit

The cheerleaders put a lot of extra time and effort into this year's football season. By arranging to have orange and black days, they psyched up the student body and lifted the team spirit before the more competitive games.

John Phillip Sousa

The John Phillip Sousa Award is presented each year to a senior band member who has contributed the most to band. This year's recipient, as voted on by fellow band members, was Terry Bruggeman. Terry, an eight-year member, plays the French horn, and served as both squad leader and section leader.

Choir Honors

This year Mr. Selhorst, the choir director, chose the following outstanding choir members to be presented with awards. The National Choral Award was presented to Carol Griesdorn and Dennis Stammen. Gigi Giese and Rod Kremer were presented with the Arian Award. The Outstanding Sophomore Award went to Eric Crouch and Bev Meyer received the Outstanding Freshman Award. Outstanding Accompanist was presented to Maria Fortkamp.

Rosburg Rock

This year's delegate for Rosburg Rock was Sandy Schwieterman. Sandy was chosen by her fellow classmates. On the night of the dance many Coldwater students came to show their support, although not enough for Sandy to win the use of a Camaro. However Sandy was the first runner-up in the AA category.

Scholastic Bowl

Scholastic Bowl candidates were required to take a test on a variety of subjects. From this test members were chosen. This year's members were Randy Kremer, Lewis Muhlenkamp, Greg Pax, David Brackman, Dale Koeslers, Terry Bruggeman, Ann Ewry, Beth Roth, and Carolyn Schmit. Advisor was Mrs. Ewry.

American Legion Government Test

Students were required to take a government test which was sponsored by the American Legion. Top scorers were: Seniors Dave Steinbrunner and Beth Roth, Juniors Mike Wolters and Sue Braun, Sophomores Dale Koesters and Julia Pax.

Voice of Democracy

Participants had to prepare a three to five minute taped speech on "My Role in Upholding Our Constitution." The first place winner, Carolyn Schmit, received a $75 savings bond. The second place winner, Michelle Spoltman, received a $50 savings bond.

FFA

Jim Minch and Kevin Dues received their State FFA degree this year. This degree is based on occupational experience programs, net worth, scholarship, FFA leadership, and participation in community, school, and FFA chapter activities. Kevin also received third place in the State FFA Dairy Proficiency Awards. Jim also received a plaque in the farm management test.

Buckeye Girls State

Any Junior girl wishing to attend Buckeye Girls State was required to write a composition on why she wanted to attend. The delegates are Sheri Boeckman and Deb Giere. Alternates are Leslie Winner and Paula Forsthoefel.

Tri-Star

Top students of the Junior and Senior classes were chosen to participate in the Tri-Star program. In this program Coldwater students joined with St. Marys and Celina students to tour such places as the University of Cincinnati and the Eli Lilly headquarters in Indianapolis.

Buckeye Boys State

Participants were required to give a speech to the American Legion Post. Delegates and Alternates were chosen from these speeches. History grades were also considered. This years delegates were Arnie Olsen, Rod Kremer, Doug Seitz, Nate Wenning, Ron Keller, and Jim Eckstein. Alternates were Jeff Birkmeyer, Jeff Gaerke, and Mike George.

Hard Work Pays Off

This year's marching band season started in early May, when the incoming freshmen joined the upperclassmen to sharpen skills for the endless parades. By this time August had rolled around and so had band camp. Now the "fun" began — learning diagonal lines, arcs, and how to march eight-to-five.

Once school started the band was busy preparing their show — Carmina Burana, Czardas, Africa, and Pictures at an Exhibition — for the Winchester Festival. This festival provided the band with an overview of their performance, which helped prepare them for the upcoming Dayton Carroll Contest.

The weeks following the Winchester Festival were filled with hard work and dedication by all. The marching Cavaliers gave a very respectable showing at the prestigious Carroll contest, placing fourth in their division.

Forward March

Being a member of the C.H.S. marching band requires many hours of hard work, including daily practices, Wednesday nights, weekend parades, football games, and concerts.

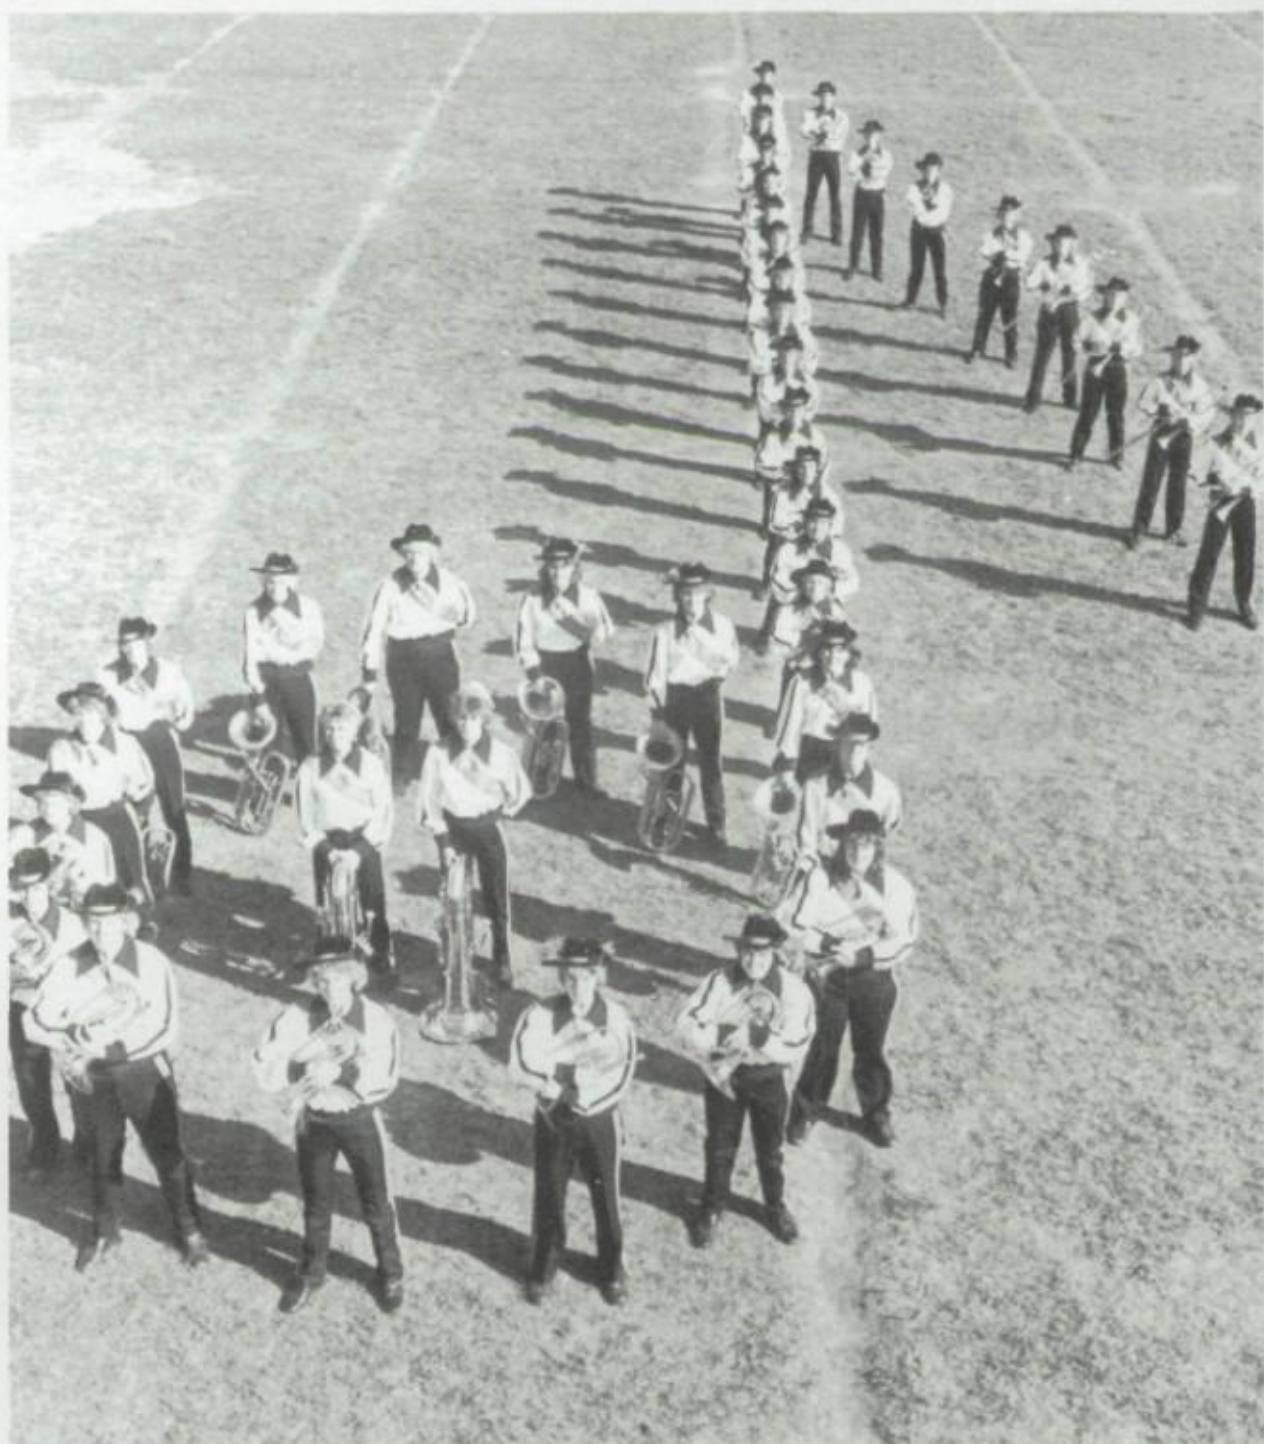

The 1983 Cavalier Marching Band stepped off to a slow start but after conflicts were discussed the members were stepping high to a good season.

The cold rainy weather during the New Bremen game added some competition to the halftime show, but the Cavaliers handled this well.

As the concert season rolled around the Cavaliers spent their time working on music for their performances.

A Rebuilding Year In CHS Choirs

A rebuilding took place in the choir program this year, as Mr. John Selhorst and his members went from two separate choirs, symphonic and concert, to one large symphonic group. Even though the Symphonic choir was a young group consisting of 85% freshmen and 15% sophomores, juniors and seniors, the choir still proved to be fairly successful as they captured a 3 rating at their March choir competition.

Students Volunteer Time

SAE isn't exactly an athletic team, but the students involved in this organization have as much spirit as any sport club. These Students in Action for Education assist elementary teachers by tutoring students, running errands, decorating bulletin boards, and doing other odd jobs.

Outside the classroom SAE members raise money by selling concessions at the girls basketball games. Much of this money is distributed among the elementary grades for any needed supplies. Any leftover cash goes toward a one-day visit to a specially-chosen college. At the end of the year a special banquet is given in honor of those students who have volunteered so much of their time and effort.

A special "Thanks!" goes to the six SAE advisors. These include Dan and Mary Lehman, Linda

An Overworked Chatter

The 1983-84 Chatter Staff was undermanned and overworked according to members. There were only eight participants and they were always busy writing, seeking ideas for upcoming articles, taking pictures, or making interviews. One item that kept them particularly busy was the weekly "Goofin' Off" article which featured the '84 Seniors.

Members and advisor Schwieterman sum up their experience in a discovered poem:

We The Willing

We The Willing
Led By the Unknowing
Are doing the Impossible
For the Ungrateful.
We Have Done So Much
With so Little
For So Long
We Are Now Qualified
To Do Anything
With Nothing.

Student Council Always On The Go

Much of what goes on in school is organized by the student council. Five representatives are elected from each grade to form this government body. Its purposes are to plan and organize students' activities, to create unity between the students and faculty, and to stir up school spirit.

Every year the student council plans for the homecoming dance. Each member helps decorate the gym, choose the band, and do anything else that makes the night a memorable one for everybody. One event that was sponsored by the council this year was the INFINITY concert. This student music group rocked students and teachers, giving them a relaxing break before Easter vacation. In addition, they also held a student council exchange with several schools including Wapak, Parkway, and Delphos. The purpose of the exchange is to allow the council members to get to know other school systems, see how they operate, and maybe change their own.

Aides???

Aides . . . Ten to one says that the first thing that carries to anyone's mind is some really terrible disease that everyone hopes he never gets. Actually, the word "aides" is used to refer to phys. ed. aides, visual aides, or office aides.

Phys. ed. aides usually spend one of their study halls helping gym teachers. They take attendance, act as refs in volleyball or flag football games, help the students with certain skills, and do other odd jobs.

Visual aides are responsible for running the video camera. Usually these people are only needed during sports, such as volleyball, football, or basketball, when a team wants to find what they need to work on. Sometimes, though, a teacher may want a certain TV program recorded. Visual aides, then, will help that teacher.

Many IOE students spend one period a day helping out in the office. These office workers act much like an assistant secretary. They answer phones, type memos, and run the duplicating machine. During busy days they're handy to have around.

See? Having AIDES isn't so bad, now, is it?

Fast Forward In Action

LIGHTS!

At first the stage was dark. No one knew the first thing about the making of a yearbook. Co-editor Cindy Bertke and Terry Bruggeman traveled to Northern Kentucky University for a one-week seminar. During those six days they learned how to put together an interesting yearbook. Meanwhile, all other staff members attended a different workshop. Held in the basement of the Third National Bank, everyone learned skills such as cropping pictures, copy writing, and learning not to make mistakes.

CAMERA!

The staff also had its own photographers. These people, as many students soon discovered, spent their study hall, lunch "hour", and free time shooting film. The film was then developed — first into proofsheets, then into pictures — by these photographers in the darkroom.

ACTION!

As the year progressed, many members realized that deadlines were quickly advancing. Some of these deadlines were met, but many were not. So yearbook advisor Nick Wenning extended the Monday night meetings to three hours. And, at last, the 1984 yearbook was completed — FAST FORWARD.

FAITH, HAPPINESS, LOVE AND HOPE

If we don't meet again one sunny day,
I wish you faith and happiness, love and hope
your bright days stay.

If we don't talk when we need a hand,
I wish you strength and courage, love and hope you'll understand.

If we don't write for weeks and the phone calls seem to cease,
I wish you lots of smiles, love and hope you won't blame me.

If you really need to talk and nobody's around, give me a call, you know where I can be found.

Although we're going our separate ways,
I wish you faith and happiness, love and hope
through all your days.
